

64 BIG™ Proverbial Reasons Why We Communicate Lessons in How and What We Communicate exposes the quote by George Bernard Shaw, “The single biggest problem with communication is the illusion that it has taken place.” This single quote has inspired the author throughout her entire life, as she has sat in awe watching mankind muddle through from one port to another in hopes of being understood at some untold juncture in time. Sitting on the sidelines knowing that people are simply moving through time not being heard, being consistently misunderstood, and never being really listened to. Having ideas, dreams, and hopes interpreted, revised, reworked and handed back neatly packed in little boxes; all the while being told repetitively to color within the lines. It is no wonder that we continually build massive engines of communication in the likes on Facebook, following on twitter, hanging out on goggle, to the instant hear me now on instagram in a hopeful attempt at real communication. Perhaps as she shares the wisdom and knowledge gained from many lessons of failed and successful communication you will come to understand the compulsion of communication. It is that something we do rather well or bad, which we are drawn to repeat until we get it just right. Happy Communicating!
